Pomos village, hanging on the cliffs of west coast Cyprus, lies about 56km from Paphos, beyond the Akamas nature reserve and its beautiful sandy beaches

It is a laid back village very peaceful and quiet. It is ideal for those wanting to live the authentic Cyprus way of life, away from the hassle and bustle of tourist's resorts.

The village boasts breathtaking sunsets and amazing views of the coastline and sandy beaches, making it the ideal place for rest and relaxation. There is a small fisherman's harbour in nearby Kanalli, with a small fish taverna and a local beach.

The small village of Pachyammos, just 3.5 km from Pomos is majestically beautiful and the mountains lead straight into the sea. The main point of interest is the impressive church of Agios Rafael, an important pilgrimage site for the faithful due to the belief in the miraculous curing powers of the saint. The narrow sandy Blue Flag beach of Pachyammos makes for a nice stop. Pachyammos Village Beach is an idyllic refuge for those seeking a remote and private stretch of bay to enjoy their day in tranquility.
