

Villa Sentido

Region: Costa Brava Sleeps: 8

Overview

If you love open-plan living, this is the holiday home for you.

Once inside this whitewashed, contemporary villa, you'll instantly get a sense of space and light. From the living areas with floor-to-ceiling windows, and the spacious bedrooms, which are boldly minimalist, it's a great space to enjoy with family and friends.

Take time to relax in the modern, yet cosy living area, but don't worry about missing out. This sociable, open-plan style of living means the kitchen and dining area are within your sight. And what a sight! The glossy kitchen, with its obligatory island, overlooks the dining spaces inside and out, and the considerable glass doors let in lots of natural light. Heavenly!

Luckily for its guests, the south-facing garden means you'll get sun all day. So, pull up a lounge on the perfectly-manicured lawn, surrounded by pine trees and mountain views, and soak it up. And when you're ready for a dip, check out the fantastic pool with reflective green tiles and Roman steps that'll cool you off in no time.

Ideal for a family or group of friends, the four-bedroom villa is made for people who enjoy inspiring but inviting surroundings and interiors. You just need to stand in front of the impressive staircase and notice the boutique-style hotel finishes to realise this is one uber-modern residence.

And what's more, Villa Sentido is just a short walk away from the beautiful crescent-shaped beach at Tamariu. This lovely sandy and the child-friendly beach is by far one of the best on the Costa Brava, and the little-whitewashed village of Tamariu is certainly photogenic. Sheltered, with a promenade and a few restaurants and bars, you'll be well catered for. And with snorkelling, kayaking, and motorboats available, it's the perfect way to spend the day. If you want to venture a little further, the medieval town of Begur is well worth a visit...

Location & Local Information

osWhatever you're picturing, it's even better. Tamariu is a truly delightful seaside village, and its beach is considered one of the best on the Costa Brava.

This small crescent-shaped beach, surrounded by pine clad headlands, is wonderfully sandy, and blessed with translucent waters. Originally a fishing village, Tamariu has retained much of its charm and identity, due to the nature of its rather rugged, but beautiful coastline, and the challenging journey for those navigating the narrow hillside roads. And thank goodness for that, as what we are left with is an utterly charming stretch of coast occupied by like-minded discerning tourists who respect the local countryside, and embrace the traditional restaurants and tapas bars found in this gem of a village.

There are welcome additions too; a popular promenade, a couple of well-stocked mini-markets and great waterfront restaurants. This is one special place to enjoy a family meal; just soak up the atmosphere as dusk falls.

Or, you could head out to the little medieval town of Begur, just 1.5km away. Well worth the visit, this delightful town with its narrow streets and crumbling buildings make for a great day trip, or the perfect venue for a sublime supper.

An idyllic location, Tamariu is less than an hour's drive from Girona airport. What are you waiting for?
