Overview

Offering an unbelievably beautiful view of the Adriatic Sea, Villa Bayou sits on the waterfront in the village of Brna. On the southern coast of the Croatian island of Korčula, this modern villa enjoys direct access to the beach and features its own spectacular pool and terraces.

The beautiful surrounding area lends itself to biking and hiking, with various trails to follow. The peaceful village of Brna also offers grocery stores and restaurants, many of which enjoy a similarly scenic setting. It's a pleasure to simply walk around the village and take in the tranquil atmosphere down by the waterside.

The chic Villa Bayou will make your time in Croatia truly luxurious. Sun loungers line up beside the pool and enjoy a direct view of the sea, as does a beautiful covered dining space. A barbecue is also available to use.

Patio doors lead you from the terrace into the house, where you have an open-plan living and dining area. There is plenty of comfortable seating, a flat screen television and a well-equipped, modern kitchen with a breakfast bar, coffee machine, dishwasher and direct access out to the terrace. The services of a private chef are also available if required.

The villa has four bedrooms, each of which has its own bathroom, and there is also an adjoining nursery. Each bedroom has a view of the Adriatic Sea as well as a television. All kinds of entertainment is provided in the villa, with a pool table, DVD player, books, games, toys and movies waiting for you.

The island of Korčula has all the beauty of Dubrovnik without the crowds, making it a peaceful and rewarding place for a break. The main town, which shares the island's name, has a well-preserved medieval centre, one of its highlights being the fine St Mark's Cathedral – an architectural wonder built over three centuries.

Location & Local Information

The island of Korčula is so picturesque it's a wonder that it's not overrun with visitors. The beautiful Old Town of Korčula sits pretty amongst olive groves, vineyards and pine forests on the island's north-eastern side, looking out towards the Pelješac peninsula.

As one of the Adriatic's more populous islands, Korčula is well-prepared for the visitors it receives, many of whom appreciate its laid-back vibe and natural beauty. The main town is a lovely place to wander, with street markets, pavement cafés and old buildings to admire. Look out for St Mark's Cathedral and the imposing Revelin Tower which once marked the entrance to the walled city. The view, looking out over the harbour, is a charming one.

Around 15km from the town of Korčula, the lovely Pupnatska Luca beach is also worth a visit; aside from chilling out in the sun, its crystal blue waters are great for swimming and snorkelling. Elsewhere on the island, you can try white-water rafting in Blato, or diving in Vela Luka.

You may find some visitor attractions based around Marco Polo's (possibly tenuous) connection to Korčula, as he is something of an unofficial mascot for the island. However, there are many more authentic experiences to be had on the island. With galleries, winery tours and many beautiful villages to see, avoid the tourist traps and keep it real. For an unforgettable taste of the true Korčula, head to Vela Luka and take a boat trip to Proizd island, just off the west coast – a naturally stunning spot you won't want to miss.
