

Villa Simunka

Region: Istria Sleeps: 14

Overview

Escape to paradise, with lush greenery, sea breezes and a home that boasts beautiful Italian influence.

This influence is felt as you step into the home, with dark wooden furniture and exposed brick walls. The house is cosy and homely, while also offering plenty of space for everyone. Beautiful art adorns the wall, and there are unique touches like the grandfather clock.

This villa can accommodate up to 16 guests and has seven bedrooms and five bathrooms - all of which are cosy, spacious and perfect for winding down in after a long day exploring, or relaxing by the pool.

The living areas of this villa offer everything you need to relax and unwind. The fully-equipped kitchen makes meal prep easy with homely touches like a dishwasher and a coffee machine.

As delicious meals are prepared, and memories are made, people can sit around the main dining table chatting with the chef and lending a helping hand. There's also a smaller table available in the living room for romantic meals for two or as the designated kid's table.

Unsurprisingly, the outdoor setup takes full advantage of the beautiful space. A private pool sits front and centre, catching the rays through the day and making for the perfect spot for a daily dip, the sun chairs that surround the pool offer optimal sun enjoyment - safe splash distance from the pool.

If you fancy a moment of solitude, escape to the hammock in the garden which is perfectly shaded and the perfect spot for a cuppa and a good book.

The outdoor dining area is ideal for preparing and enjoying alfresco meals boasting local cuisine such as olives and truffles, all while stargazing, of course.

Location & Local Information

Istria is the perfect getaway, with beautiful waters to stunning rolling hills with villages atop. It's a picturesque holiday spot for the whole family. This location is becoming increasingly popular as people flock to this Croatian beauty that is a little less busy than some of its counterparts, but equally as stunning.

Of course, the weather is a pleasant change from grey, grey and more grey, with a Mediterranean climate in the Western and Southern coasts to a more continental climate in the centre.

Istria offers something for everyone, from history-buffs, foodie-fiends and sun-seekers. The area is known for delicacies such as olives, truffles and exciting wines. The drops of vino are so tasty; it's been dubbed the 'new Tuscany'.

There is more to do here than eat, of course, from the Pula Arena, a Roman amphitheatre, to Lim, a scenic channel that has to be experienced by boat.

This villa is located in Central Istria, a place with dreamy nature sites and medieval towns with narrow alleys and unique towns. There are loads of shops selling local products, such as wines, honey, olive oil, truffles and grappa.

There's plenty to do in the area, from visiting said wineries to exploring beaches and the countryside. You are also close to many other areas, filled with amazing things to do and see.

What Oliver loves...

- This villa has to air-condition throughout, making it the perfect place to seek respite from the heat
- This region is renowned for its wines and olive oil, and such delicacies can be prepared and enjoyed in this stunning, and vast, backyard
- The Italian influences to this home make it the perfect home away from home

What you should know...

- This home is in a residential area, however, with the lush greenery, you feel as though you are in your own secluded paradise
- While the closest beach, Kavran, is beautiful and unspoiled it is lacking amenities such as change rooms and chair rental and is not family-friendly
