Location & Local Information

Spain's Balearic Islands are well worth a visit, renowned for stunning beaches and natural beauty - why wouldn't you want to getaway there? Of course, Ibiza and Majorca have a slight party vibe to them, but if you're after a more low-key, relaxing spot you can't look past Menorca. Renowned for glistening waters, mile-long sandy beaches and turquoise-watered bays, it's the perfect spot if you're looking for sun, sand and solitude.

Menorca is situated in the Mediterranean Sea and has a beautiful climate all year round, with mild winters and hot summers. So whenever you feel like an island getaway to warm your soul, this spot is calling. Menorca has more beaches than its neighbours, Ibiza and Majorca, combined. Some of the most popular spots to enjoy some sun and sand include Cala Mitjana, Macarelleta and Cala en Turqueta.

If you want a slightly different viewpoint of the ocean and beaches, you can get a stunning bird's eye view of some of the beaches from El Toro, a hill in Spain that is the highest peak of the Santa Rosa Mountain Range offering panoramic views to hikers.

The island offers more than beautiful beaches, as it also has a very rich history. The island is known for its collection of megalithic stone monuments that indicate very early prehistoric human activity. So history buffs can explore the island looking out for some interesting sites. Unique sites include Naveta d'es Tudons and Cathedral Ciudadela. If you fancy a little more culture, Cami de Cavalls is an open-air museum that's well worth a visit. Torre d'en Galmes is also a great excursion, this ancient ruin site is a captivating experience.

Of course, when you visit a new country you really have to get a taste for the culture by trying local specialties, including Queso de Mahon, a local white cheese; fish meatballs and Arroz de la Tierra, which translates as rice of the land, although it doesn't actually include any rice it's wheat, ground down and baked with sausages.

The Villa itself is located by Son Bou beach, one of the most exclusive areas of Torre Soli. It is the longest beach in Menorca and boasts one of the few open seas. The beach is 2.5 km long and is located between Cap de ses Penyes, and Punta Rodona. It's a big beach area, with plenty of water sports and other water experiences near by. There's plenty of places to eat and drink, whether you're looking for a family-friendly night out or something a little bigger - there's something for everyone, though do bear in mind this is a laid back island unlike other spots nearby
