

Villa Alexio 3

Region: Skiathos Sleeps: 6

Overview

Right by the beach and sleeping up to six guests, Villa Alexio 3 is located in Aselinos on the northern coast of Skiathos. Everything on this beautiful Greek island is within easy driving distance, and you have a lot to enjoy back at base, including a lounge-lined sun terrace and a magnificent private pool.

Just 70m away from the peaceful Aselinos Beach, this property is perfect for all the family. As well as the private pool, you have a spacious garden with a barbecue and a children's play area. The sun loungers lined up poolside have parasols so you can get some shade from the sun too.

Inside, you will find the open-plan living area on the upper floor, giving it a wonderful view of the Aegean Sea from the adjoining balcony terrace. There is a seating area with two sofas, a TV with satellite channels and DVD, and a dining area with seating for six. The kitchen also forms part of this space, featuring a breakfast bar and all the appliances you may need, including a large fridge freezer.

A bathroom with a spacious shower is located on the same floor, while two bedrooms can be found downstairs. There is a double and a twin room, both of which have direct access to a balcony terrace right beside the pool. Sofa-beds in the lounge provide sleeping space for the two remaining guests. The house is equipped with air-conditioning and Wi-Fi, and offers onsite parking.

West coast beaches like Koukounaries and Banana are within a 20-minute drive, and it's not much further to the island's main town which shares its name. Skiathos town is the centre of dining and nightlife, and has waterfront restaurants, bars and clubs which are particularly popular during the summer months. There are several beaches close to the town too, which also counts some small museums and an open-air cinema among its attractions.

Location & Local Information

A Greek island favourite, Skiathos packs in more stunning beaches than you could reasonably expect. With 60 of those, and some beautiful areas of countryside, it's an undeniably photogenic place with a chilled vibe and, in recent years, a movie connection – thanks to its presence in Mamma Mia!

Skiathos town, or the Chora of the island, lies on the southern coast, providing a centre for shopping, dining, entertainment and other visitor-friendly activities. It is certainly the place to be if you want to try a plethora of restaurants – you can find many down by the harbour, and others tucked away around the picturesque Old Town.

In the evenings, particularly during the summer, Skiathos comes alive in its late-night bars and clubs. If that's not your scene, the open-air cinema is a popular choice for a night out – in a building without a roof, you can find it showing movies throughout the summer. During the day, you can visit some small museums or admire the churches around town – one is near the Agios Nikolaos clock tower which looks over the town and provides magnificent views out to sea and to the neighbouring island, Skopelos.

It's easy enough to get around Skiathos, thanks to a regular bus service on the main routes, and driving distances which are rarely more than 30-40 minutes. Water-taxis also provide a scenic way of travelling from one coastal spot to another. The choice of beaches is varied, with everything from family-friendly to naturist. Some have a legendary status like Koukounaries; an unspoilt gem said to be one of the world's most beautiful beaches, while others are less discovered and likely quieter. Many of those – such as Aselinos and Stigero – are found along the northern coast.

What we love

- This villa is super-close to the beach, giving it an amazing ocean view from its upper terrace
- You will enjoy exclusive use of the outdoor pool and children will love the play area and large garden
- Aselinos is one of the quieter beaches on the island, so ideal if you seek tranquility – if you like it busier, many more are a short distance away
- Mountainous and full of forests, Skiathos is a great place for walking or touring by boat

What you should know...

- Villa Alexio 3 is part of a three-villa complex, therefore you will have neighbours
- The house has a country-like feeling throughout, so may not be the best choice for those looking for a sleek and contemporary villa
- There is a beach and a restaurant are within walking distance, however a car is highly recommended to explore the island
