The Paradiski is the second largest connected skiing area in the world with the majority of the slopes being above an altitude of 2000m. There is such a wonderful variety of scenery and pistes to discover. Paradiski is formed of eighteen ski resorts in total, including Arc 1600, Arc 1800, Arc 1950, Arc 2000, Peisey Vallandy, Villaroger, Bourg St Maurice, Plagne Montalbert, Plagne Bellecote, Montchavin, Les Coches, Champagny en Vanoise, Belle Plagne, Plagne 1800, Plagne Soleil, Aime la Plagne, Plagne Centre and Plagne Village. Chalet Nicolette enjoys an excellent position, steps from the blue run that goes from Plagne Bellecote to Belle Plagne. You will be on the slopes in minutes!

Much of La Plagne is above tree level though there some very pretty runs between the trees. There is an abundance of wide-open motorway pistes through the main bowl with Plagne Centre being at the crossroads of the ski area. Below Plagne Centre is Plagne 1800. Plagne Soleil, Plagne Village and Plagne 1800 are just above, a short lift away from the centre and offering numerous gondolas and lifts to explore the ski area. The Olympic Bobsleigh track is just below Plagne 1800. Just above Plagne Village you will discover quite a number of green and blue runs that drop into Plagne Bellecote. Belle Plagne is just above Plagne Bellecote. Higher up, you will discover Les Verdons at 2500m, Grande Rochette at 2505m or you can head over the other side of the mountain towards Champagny. Beautiful forest runs take you to Montchavin, Les Coches, Champagny and Montalbert. At Montalbert and Longefoy, at 1200m, there is a freestyle area and extensive cross-country ski trails.

Chalet Nicolette is just moments from the Carlina Hotel, Belle Plagne. At La Table du Carlina, the brilliant chef and his team prepare delicious gourmet dinners. At the more intimate L'Ercheu, you will enjoy mountain specialities such as morel fondue and matouille. La Plagne offers night skiing. You can enjoy a magical alpine sunset at La Grande Rochette with views stretching from Mont Blanc in one direction to Courchevel in the other before skiing blue runs back to La Plagne. Thanks to a special taxi ski service, non-skiers and beginners can also enjoy the moonlight ski experience, joining the group for a traditional two course Savoyarde meal at La Grande Rochette.

As well as skiing and snowboarding, La Plagne offers many activities such as ice skating, glacier walking, snowshoeing, sledging, husky dog rides, bobsleighbing and superluge. It is also popular for snow biking and ice climbing. You can hire 'fat-bikes' and head off to a blue trail.
