Location & Local Information

La Plagne is nestled in the alpine valley of the Tarentaise, an area which easily links to Les Arcs via the Vanoise Express to form the renowned Paradiski area. The Paradiski is the second largest connected skiing area in the world with 425km of slopes with the majority being above an altitude of 2000m. There is such a splendid variety of scenery and pistes to discover. Paradiski is formed of the eighteen ski resorts Arc 1600, Arc 1800, Arc 1950, Arc 2000, Peisey Vallandy, Villaroger, Bourg St Maurice, Plagne Montalbert, Plagne Bellecote, Montchavin, Les Coches, Champagny en Vanoise, Belle Plagne, Plagne 1800, Plagne Soleil, Aime la Plagne, Plagne Centre and Plagne Village. Chalet Francine enjoys an excellent position, steps from the blue run that goes from Plagne Bellecote to Belle Plagne. You will be on the slopes in minutes!

Many of La Plagne's pistes are above tree level though there some very pretty runs between the trees. There is an abundance of wide-open motorway pistes through the main bowl with Plagne Centre being at the crossroads of the ski area. Below Plagne Centre is Plagne 1800. Plagne Soleil, Plagne Village and Plagne 1800 are just above, a short lift away from the centre and offering numerous gondolas and lifts to explore the ski area. The Olympic Bobsleigh track is just below Plagne 1800. Just above Plagne Village you will discover quite a number of green and blue runs that drop into Plagne Bellecote. Belle Plagne is just above Plagne Bellecote. Higher up, you will discover Les Verdons at 2500m, Grande Rochette at 2505m or you can head over the other side of the mountain towards Champagny. Beautiful forest runs take you to Montchavin, Les Coches, Champagny and Montalbert. At Montalbert and Longefoy, at 1200m, there is a freestyle area and extensive cross-country ski trails.

Chalet Francine is nestled next to the excellent Carlina Hotel, Belle Plagne. In the heart of the Paradiski ski area at 2050m, it is a brilliant location and the hotel enjoys two restaurants, a gorgeous terrace and a luxury spa, all of which welcome guests from the chalet. At La Table du Carlina, the brilliant chef and his team prepare delicious gourmet dinners. At the more intimate L'Ercheu, you will enjoy mountain specialities such as morel fondue and matouille. The Carlina bar is chic, refined and the scene of much apres-ski revelry. The terrace is good for a hot drink and enjoying the sunshine! The hotel's Pure Altitude spa enjoys an indoor pool where you can swim with a view, a hammam, sauna, jacuzzi and fantastic wellness treatments.

La Plagne offers night skiing. You can enjoy a magical alpine sunset at La Grande Rochette with views stretching from Mont Blanc in one direction to Courchevel in the other before skiing blue runs back to La Plagne. Thanks to a special taxi ski service, non-skiers and beginners can also enjoy the moonlight ski experience, joining the group for a traditional two course Savoyarde meal at La Grande Rochette.

La Plagne offers many activities other than skiing and snowboarding, including ice skating, glacier walking, snowshoeing, sledging, husky dog rides, bobsleighbing and superluge. It is also popular for snow biking and ice climbing. You can hire 'fat-bikes' and head off to a blue trail. There are daily panoramic helicopter flights available so that you can sit back and admire the snow-capped mountains from even higher up. Some of the helicopter trips will pick you up from the resort and take you over into Italy or Switzerland from where you can ski back accompanied by a mountain guide, definitely a once in a lifetime experience.
