Es Raco d'Arta is a resort like none others focusing on the wellness and relaxation of every single guest. This resort is made up of a collection of properties that have been standing since the 13th century, exemplifying its archaic and traditional nature. During the 1960s, Mallorca was experiencing an exponential boom in its tourism industry, which inspired artists Antoni Esteve and Jaume Danus to completely renovate the area. Therefore, the resort still captures the past life of these properties whilst maintaining a modern approach. Es Raco d'Arta also uses a range of eco-friendly practices, such as recyclable energy and toiletries, to help keep the resort as sustainable as possible. Therefore, this resort prides itself on its dedication to conservation and protecting the land for the next generation.
