Location & Local Information

Cala Moli is a peaceful and tranquil alternative to some of the livelier resorts in Ibiza, with its beautiful sandy bays and quiet, family-friendly atmosphere. You'll find some great opportunities along the coast for bathing and relaxing and for enjoying water sports such as jet-skiing, kayaking and snorkelling - so you're sure to find something the whole family will enjoy. There are good amenities at the beach here, including sunbeds and parasols, as well as public toilets and places to buy refreshments. The resort is small, but don't let that fool you; for what it lacks in size, it more than makes up for in looks! Cala Tarida boasts long, white sandy stretches and crystal clear azure waters surrounded by pine-covered hills, and its south-facing location means that it is bathed in sunshine from morning until sunset. It's worth noting that the sunsets seen from here are some of the most spectacular on the island, so be sure to take some in while you are here!

You won't find any nightclubs on this part of the island, but there are plenty of beachside restaurants and bars to enjoy. Whether you want a quick snack, a three-course meal, or an exclusive fine dining experience, you'll find something here to suit all tastes. There is also a nearby supermarket to make self-catering a breeze and shops right on the beach where you can buy inflatables, snorkelling gear, buckets and spades and beach balls to entertain the kids on the beach.

Nearby Cala Moli beach is well worth a visit while you are in the region. This popular wedding location is a natural beach tucked away from the crowds in a beautiful pebbly cove and is a haven of seclusion, peace and quiet. You won't find the usual rows of loungers or parasols here, but there are still some fabulous amenities, including a bar/restaurant with a swimming pool. The sea bed at Cala Moli is excellent for snorkelling, although it's worth noting that it is quite rocky, so beach shoes are advised.

The nearby village of San Jose is worth a visit during your stay - especially if you are something of a foodie - as it boasts some excellent restaurants, shops and bars, including pizza parlours, cocktail bars and high-end gourmet restaurants. Souvenir hunters won't be disappointed either; the village has plenty of shops and boutiques selling traditional ceramics, colourful Ibizan fashions, and even toys, and from Easter to October, the market held in the centre of the village aims to promote the island's local products and traditions. There are stalls offering organic produce such as homemade bread and pastries, fruits and vegetables, and local artists come here to sell their paintings, sculptures and handicrafts.

What we love

- We love Villa Avenc's spacious and modern interior
- The kids loved the villa's home cinema system
- The views from Villa Avenc are spectacular, and we enjoyed some of the best sunsets on the island
- The villa's saltwater infinity pool was a wonderfully luxurious treat!

What you should know...

- One of the villa's double bedrooms is accessible from the terrace and has its bathroom, so it is perfect for any members of the group who wants some extra privacy
- This part of the island is quieter and more family-friendly than some of the more vibrant 'party' regions, so if it's a clubbing holiday you're after, this might not be the best spot for you
- The private pool is easily accessible but has no safety fence, so caution is advised if the kids are playing in the vicinity
- Several steps both inside and out make Villa Avenc less suitable for those with mobility issues and could pose a risk to very young children who are unsteady on their feet
