

Villa Priroda

Region: Istria Sleeps: 8

Overview

As soon as you see Villa Priroda, you know you will be staying somewhere very special. With a spectacular, sweeping view of the green hills around Motovun, this 4-bedroom villa in Croatian Istria is an exceptional base for your travels around the region, complete with an outdoor pool, spa and spacious terrace.

Situated to the north of Motovun, one of the area's most beautiful towns, Villa Priroda has incredible scenery all around. The large outdoor area makes the most of this advantage, featuring a private infinity pool lined with sun loungers and a covered dining area with a barbecue. Floor-to-ceiling windows slide open to reveal a magnificent kitchen and dining space running parallel to the pool, with a view directly to the hilltop town itself.

The same indoor area also incorporates a lounge space with large flatscreen TV and ample sofa seating. It's easy to wander across to get a drink from the large fridge freezer or take a bar seat at the sleek kitchen island. Another treat awaits you in the superb spa, which offers a large indoor hot tub with picture perfect view of Motovun, alongside a Scandinavian-style sauna cabin.

A quartet of beautiful bathrooms accompanies four well-appointed double bedrooms at Villa Priroda. There is room for eight guests at this villa, which offers air conditioning, parking, free Wi-Fi and much more.

The undeniable beauty of this inland Istria area will impress you. The delights of the coast are not too far away, with Novigrad, Poreč and other well-loved destinations within around 30-40 minutes' drive. Visit Motovun in summer and you may catch the acclaimed International Film Festival, but this unspoilt old town with its far-reaching panoramas will delight at any time of year.

Location & Local Information

Sat high on a hill, the old, walled town of Motovun is one of the highlights of Northern Istria. As well as spectacularly verdant surroundings, the town offers attractive eateries, a smattering of architecturally interesting buildings and its own International Film Festival in summer. Around 15km away is the scenic Lake Butoniga, while Hum – the world’s smallest town, they claim – is not too far east.

It’s on this side of the Istrian peninsula that you’ll find the mountainous U?ka Nature Park. The ideal terrain for hiking, biking and the like, this picturesque area nudges towards the fringes of elegant Opatija, a grand coastal resort that has attracted the highest in society for decades.

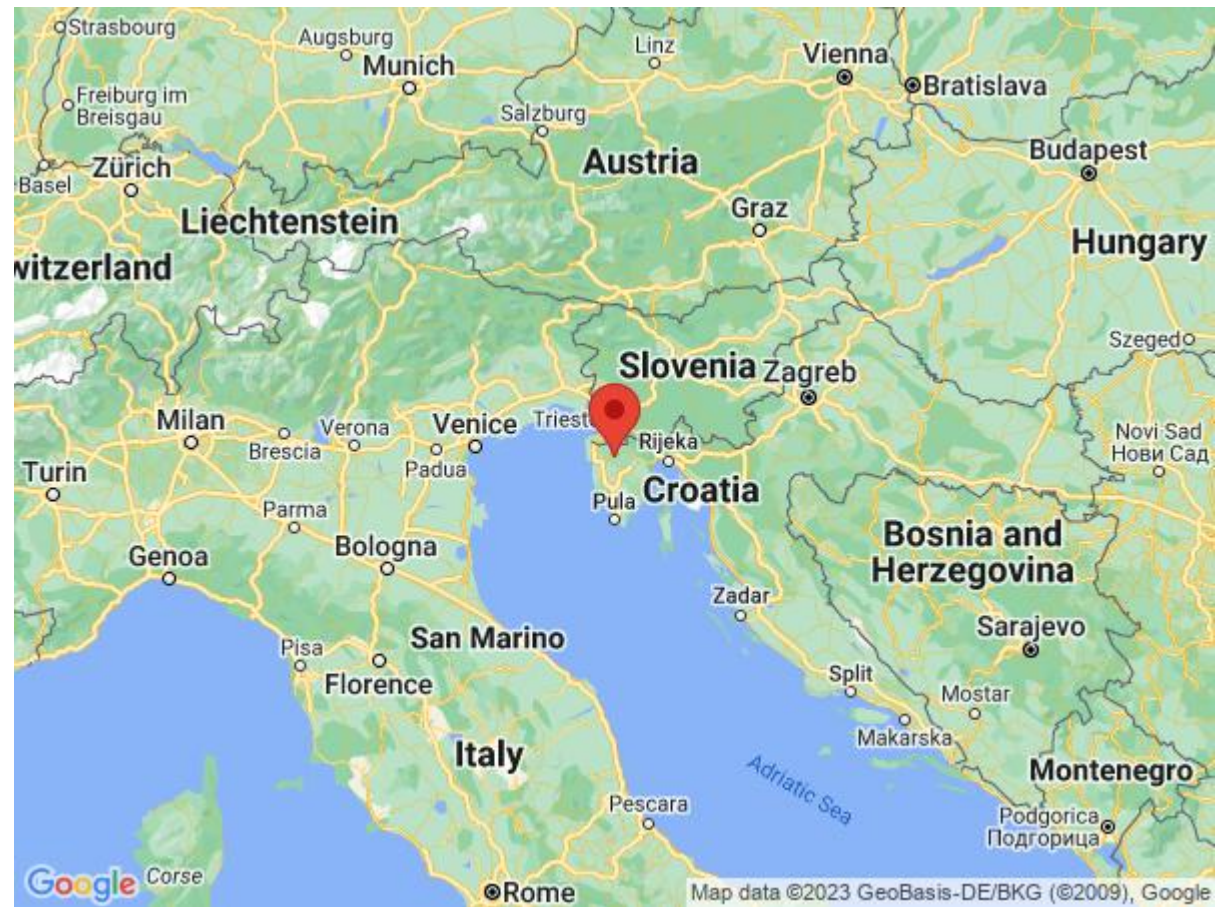

On the western coast of Istria, Novigrad is famed for its excellent restaurants and colourful waterfront. With the Old Town streets adorned with brightly hued umbrellas, Novigrad isn’t short of charm or history – the Church of St Pelagius and St Maximus, with its tall bell tower, is a distinctive landmark.

The town hosts all sorts of cultural events throughout the year, and has some good family attractions nearby, such as the Špilja Mramornica caves and Aqualand Istralandia water park. It’s also great for foodies, with some excellent restaurants and the annual Gnam-Gnam Fest boosting its credentials.

Further north, pretty Umag provides a quieter alternative to the bigger resorts, with attractive beaches and Mediterranean-style eateries around its labyrinthine Old Town. Local wineries and the nearby Savudrija Lighthouse are among the possible excursions.

Much busier Pore? offers the chance to see stunning buildings such as Zuccato Palace and the Euphrasian Basilica, where you can see some impressive mosaics. Pore? also serves as a departure point for trips out to Sveti Nikola island, while the spectacular Baredine Cave and regular summer festivals of jazz and classical music, provide more reasons to pay a visit.

Pretty little Buzet, about 20 minutes from Motovun, makes for an easy day out, and it’s worth staying for dinner and sampling the local delicacy of truffles. The sought-after fungi are the theme of the town’s annual Festival of Subotina in September, where participants share a giant truffle omelette to mark the start of truffle season.
