Location & Local Information

Villa Biniorella is based just a stone's throw away from Camp de Mar, meaning that guests can explore all of the intricacies that this impeccable region has to offer without straying too far away from the villa. If you are travelling to this amazing region in June, you must take the time to observe the Night of Sant Joan, better known as the Night of Fire. This event celebrates the birth of a new era and encourages both locals and tourists to vast light bonfires to symbolise the destruction of the past. At midnight, a variety of rituals occur, such as throwing something old into the fire or leaping over it a few times to promote a sense of progress and renewal. Since this is such a popular time of year, the streets are lined with picnics and parties, giving guests a great chance to blend in with the locals. The Night of Fire takes place on June 23rd and begins in Parc de la Mar, which is around half an hour away from the villa.

This region is also well known for its diverse and transformative seafood industry, making it a fantastic area to visit if you are looking to delve into a variety of new menu options. One of the most famous dishes in this region is greixonera de peix, which is a comforting fish stew that uses an array of freshly cooked fish and is served on a traditional piece of Balearic stoneware. If you are looking to try something more familiar, fideua offers the same richness as paella but is served with noodles rather than rice. A majority of these dishes can be found in dining establishments along the seafront, allowing guests to indulge in a truly delicious meal as well as a spot of people-watching.

Since this region is surrounded by an abundance of sapphire blue water, jet skiing is often a popular activity amongst thrill-seeking tourists. Jet Ski Mallorca is one of the most popular establishments in the area and manages to guide guests through every part of their adventure. Once you have fully understood the in-depth safety briefing, you will board an exceptional jet ski. This experience is perfect for those who are looking to observe a wealth of crystal-clear waves from an entirely new perspective. Jet Ski Mallorca can be found just under 5 minutes away from Villa Biniorella.
