Location & Local Information

Located in Rethymno, Crete, you're situated in an absolutely gorgeous location on Greece's southernmost island. There's something evocative about the Greek islands – they promise gorgeous weather, beautiful blue seas, warmth in both weather and the locals and indulgent, healthy food. It's a place where adventure and ease blend perfectly like a carefully concocted cocktail.

Rethymno itself is a stunning Venetian town located between Chania and Heraklion. You're lapped by the Mediterranean Sea whilst also being at the foothills of the looming White Mountains. As the largest of the Greek islands, Crete makes for an ideal holiday destination.

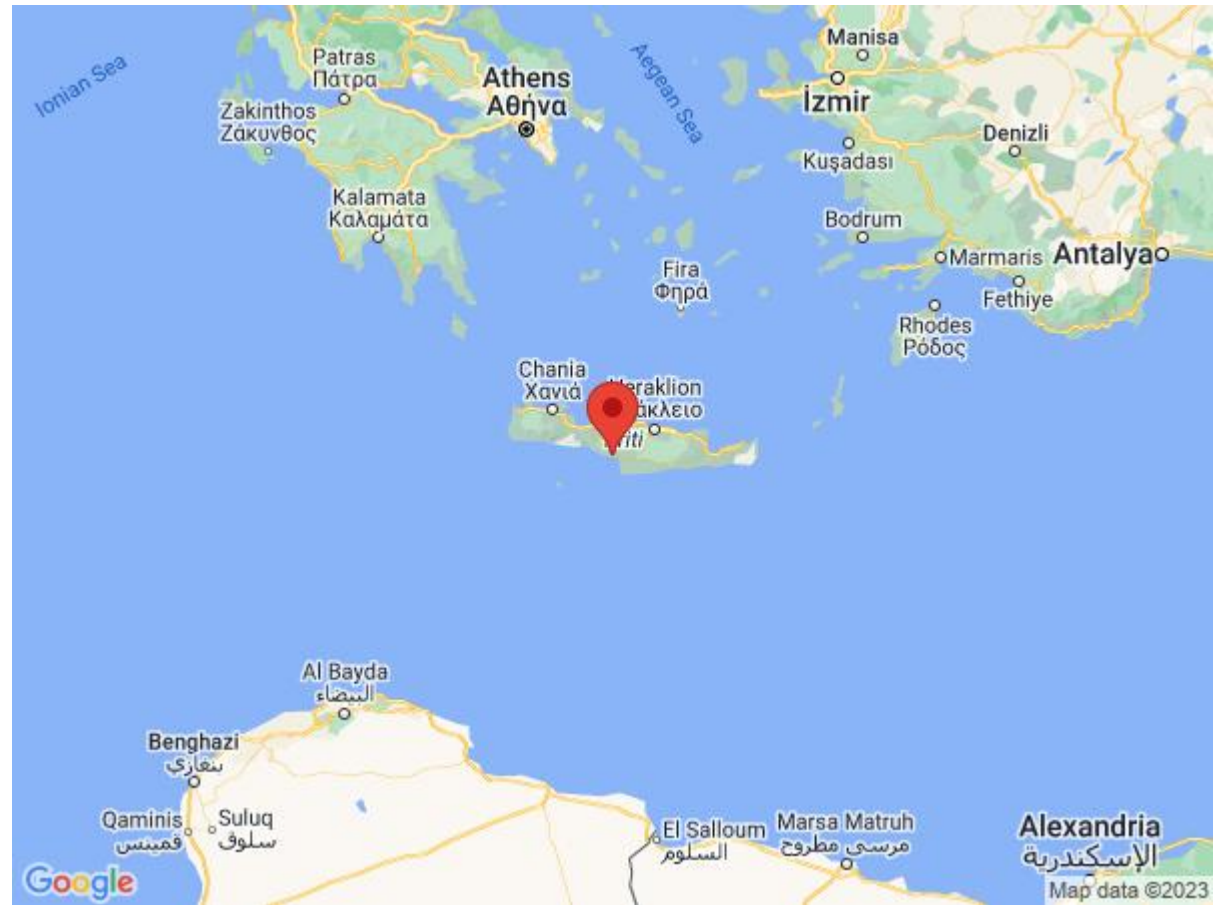

The area is very Greek but there are hints toward the areas Italian and Turkish heritage here. The town itself is a maze of pretty alleyways peppered with bougainvillea. Here you'll find endless cafes, shops and restaurants where she can enjoy Cretan delicacies. With an ancient but mellow feel, you'll find romantic hidden courtyards, stone walls, beguiling churches and plenty of contemporary fun too. One of the area's most striking features is the Fortezza, a walled Venetian fortress overlooking the bustle of the town and is a wonderful spot to seek out at sunset. In Petychaki Square you'll find the Rimondi fountain which serves as an excellent central meeting point.

For vibrancy and colour, the Venetian Harbour is a perfect spot for people-watching. Here you'll find rainbow-coloured fishing boats and a piercing lighthouse. You can enjoy a multitude of freshly caught fish here. The Old Town is a must-see if you have a penchant for a taste of the old world with its colourful doors and ornate windows.

The nearby Mili Gorge which is best travelled to by car or bus is the ideal place for a hike in the Cretan nature. Take in the scent of citrus trees and the charm of olive groves as you pass quaint churches and a local tavern. It's well worth stopping here for a drink. You can sample olive oil or go wine tasting. Of course, a huge pull is a food in the area and you must try the local delicacies such as the signature cheese of the area, fried snails and yummy Cretan cheese pies. Greece is renowned for its meze allowing you to sample many divine dishes. Just don't fill up on the bread and balsamic!

The sleepy allure of the area can be punctuated with water sports (why not try sailing, jet-skiing or paragliding?) or you can explore the water with a snorkel and goggles or simply luxuriate in the beautiful blue. Being a large island there's much to explore on Crete itself but you may wish to take a day trip to Santorini, renowned for its blue-domed buildings, or the Gramvousa Island and Balos lagoon.

The monastery of Arkadi is a beautiful building for those with a penchant for the history of the area and if you're musically inclined, head to the Lyra workshop. For a taste of something elite, the Baja Beach Club makes a great spot for dinner or a drink or you can escape into nature at the Biotopoi Nature Park where you can see beguiling butterflies and native creatures and plants.

If you enjoy a hike the views from Mount Ida are well worth it – just make sure you leave early and avoid the dead heat of the day. Be sure to head to Chania and Heraklion and enjoy the paradise of beach life. The island of Crete welcomes you.

What we love

- We love the flexibility of this property. Whether you're a small group wanting privacy or a party of friends planning a big reunion, you can make the most of things here.
- Try the meatballs and feta at Giannikos Traditional Taverna.
- This property is made for outdoor living. Enjoy the outside kitchen, dining area and communal space.
- Crete is well geared up for travellers and tourists and is very family friendly but in more remote areas or when speaking with older citizens, a few phrases of Greek can't hurt!
- Some of the best but also most expensive meals are at the harbour. Worth it to sample fresh seafood.
- The rain showers area great, especially with the strong water pressure, makes for an enjoyable shower.

What you should know...

- Please ensure you monitor older children around the balconies and pool. Each unit is designed to ensure privacy and security but care should still be taken.
- As a large island, a car is the best bet if you wish to freely explore the length and breadth of Crete.
- If booking the two bedroomed property the owner requests all guests should be 21 or older, but for sole occupancy of all the complex guests must be 12 years or over.
