Location & Local Information

Menorca Bon Bon is just over 5 minutes away from the remarkable region of Sant Lluís, a small area that is teeming with history and culture. One of the region's most iconic landmarks is Museo Etnológico Moli de Dalt, a tremendous museum that is also home to a traditional 18th-century windmill. This structure is one of the first things you will see as you travel into Sant Lluís, establishing it as a deeply significant monument throughout the area. Guests are encouraged to climb the staggering spiral staircase that can be found inside the windmill and bask in a wealth of panoramic views. This museum also hosts a collection of archaic farming tools, offering more insight into a range of authentic agricultural practices. Museo Etnológico Moli de Dalt can be found around 10 minutes away from the villa.

This region is also commended for its vast local market that helps to exemplify the bustling nature of this vibrant native community. The Sant Lluís Street Market is filled to the brim with alluring stalls, each of which presents a wide range of off-beat goods. Thus, guests can purchase a wealth of bags, clothes, and craft items that they can then show off back home. This is also a great place to visit if you are looking to become acquainted with the locals, giving you the prime opportunity to interact with an array of amicable vendors and shoppers. The Sant Lluís Street Market is located around 5 minutes away from Menorca Bon Bon and takes place every Monday and Wednesday from 10 am to 2 pm.

If you consider yourself to be a sports fanatic, a game of joc de la bolla is a must-do activity. This game has been a staple part of Menorca's culture for many generations and is favoured by the older and younger generations alike. The rules of the game operate in the same fashion as lawn bowling and require players to knock their opponents' bowls away from the centre. Thus, foreign tourists will not struggle to get to grips with this much-loved pastime. Guests can indulge in a game of joc de la bolla in many establishments across the area, offering them the unique chance to immerse themselves in a rich aspect of Sant Lluís' culture and legacy.
