Location & Local Information

Located towards the northern end of the Costa Blanca, Benissa is a small yet charming town dotted with exquisite medieval architecture and European plazas. The town has a well-preserved and well-maintained historical centre with charming nooks, centuries-old rough stone townhouses, and wrought iron balconies with colourful cascades of flowers hanging over the streets.

At the heart of the old town is the neo-gothic style 'Catedral de la Marina' (Marina Cathedral). A highlight of any trip to Benissa, the cathedral was only finished in the 20th Century and is a relaxing stop on a day out. Palm trees shade the town square, and a children's play area is sure to keep the little ones happy, and you can stock up on a picnic at any one of the supermarkets in the town.

If it's beaches that you're after, the stretch of coastline is home to a number of quiet relaxing bays and coves and is dotted with cliffs and spectacular rocks which sit against the high mountain backdrop. The quiet beach of Playa La Fustera is idyllic, and a short walk away from Villa Brujala. The beach is lined with fine sand and is practically virgin, earning it a coveted EU blue flag beach status.

For a family day out, you can't go wrong with Cala Els Pinets, a twenty-metre-long small and sandy cove which is perfect for those who prefer smaller beaches. The clear, turquoise waters and rocky formations make it a delight to snorkel, so pack a picnic and grab your snorkelling gear. This region has four kilometres of coastline, and visitors love to make their way along it via the ecological path (Paseo Ecologico) coastal walk, a lovely day trip for visitors to discover the local coves. Benissa is also popular with scuba divers as there's a good variety of marine life and caves to explore.

A thirty-minute drive from the villa is the old town of Javea, an area bursting with history which cries out to be explored on foot. You'll walk past walls that were originally built to defend against pirate attacks and tread cobbled streets lined with white houses, flower boxes and wrought iron balconies. Head to the church of San Bartolome in the town centre, which is the epitome of gothic architecture and make sure to visit the 18th-century town hall, which was built on a medieval cemetery. The church dates back to the 15th century and sits next to the indoor market which sells fresh fish, meat and vegetables daily.

What we love

- Due to its two independent houses, Villa Brujala is a brilliant choice for two families travelling together, who wish to explore the Costa Blanca, but also appreciate their privacy and space
- The outdoor garden space is exquisite, with several chill-out areas and a large pool
- The villa is just a short drive away from the sandy beaches along the coast and a short drive to the highlights of the Costa Blanca

What you should know...

- The private pool is unfenced, and while younger kiddies love to make a splash in there, they should stay supervised
- The property is open and spacious, though five bedrooms and four bathrooms mean some guests won't have their own bathroom
