Overview

Grace View Studio forms part of the Wymara complex located on the Caribbean island of Providenciales within the archipelago of Turks and Caicos. The fully renovated studio faces Grace Bay Beach giving you sumptuous views of the white sands and turquoise waters. The studio straddles the corners of floors two to four in the Wymara oceanfront building. At 670 square feet, it's a spacious property ideal for a couple seeking serenity, romance and adventure in this most beautiful of locations.

The property boasts blackout curtains to guarantee a serene nights sleep, a glorious king-size bed, a frosted glass shower for a refreshing experience, a kitchenette for meal preparation, cosy indoor seating space, a desk for work or play, and a café style dining table for two. With its own terrace, you can take in the views of the ocean and sit at the outdoor table with a book, snack or cocktail.

An ideal base from which you can explore the resort and wider island, the open plan design makes it easy to truly feel at home in moments as you move from the entrance to the bathroom, dining area and further afield to the terrace.

Chic, airy, cool and calming, this space is designed for true relaxation. Wake up to a filling American breakfast and enjoy making use of the kitchen complete with Liebherr, Gaggenau and Bosch appliances.

Tantalising touches include Frette towels and soft robes for languishing after a day at the pool or by the beach, as well as Sterling Hospitality Sleep System beds with 400 thread count bedding. Securely stow your valuables in the laptop-sized safe and opt for daily housekeeping and evening turndown services if you so wish.

Enjoy the LCD TV, DVD player and assortment of DVDs – over 250 to be precise. Let music wash you away to tranquil times by using your Bose iPod docking stereo.

The studio reflects the airy island ambience of Providenciales itself. Spend time at the restaurants, the infinity pool, beach, spa and gym.

The island, which forms part of a British Overseas Territory, is part of an archipelago comprising 40 cays and islands. Only eight of these are inhabited by humans. Renowned for the long stretches of glorious beach, beguiling waters and glorious coral reefs brimming with underwater life, many are drawn here thanks to the natural beauty, but there's culture and history to be found here too.

Take in a gentler way of life or ramp things up with some adventure. It's your choice.

Location & Local Information

Your home for the duration of your stay is part of the Wymara resort on the island of Providenciales in the Turks and Caicos Islands. On your doorstep sits Grace Bay Beach, which is somewhat famed, perhaps even legendary, for its beautiful white sands and crystal-clear waters. In fact, it's ranked as one of the world's most impressive beaches and offers opportunities to relax, snorkel, swim, sunbath or participate in adrenaline-infused water sports. On site there's plenty to do, whether you want to swim in the pool, try the local dishes, relax at the beach, work out at the gym or have a decadent spa treatment. But there's plenty to do beyond too.

Nearby you'll find Coral Gardens Reef, which forms part of the Princess Alexandra National Park, a breath-taking area which offers amazing opportunities to dive and snorkel. There are a variety of stunning coral formations to see here, gorgeous tropical marine life, and beautiful waters. Truly, this is a water baby's idea of paradise.

If you prefer keeping your feet on dry land, you can enjoy the Provo Golf Club, which is also close by. The club boasts an 18-hole golf course and makes for a challenging game regardless of skill level. With such picturesque surroundings, it also makes for an enchanting day.

Further still from the water, you can enjoy Bight Park. Enjoy a picnic, talk a leisurely stroll and visit the playgrounds. Are restaurants and shopping more your style? Graceway Plaza has it all, from quaint cafes for a coffee, restaurants featuring all kinds of fare, boutique shopping excursions and a grocery store where you can stock up on quality produce.

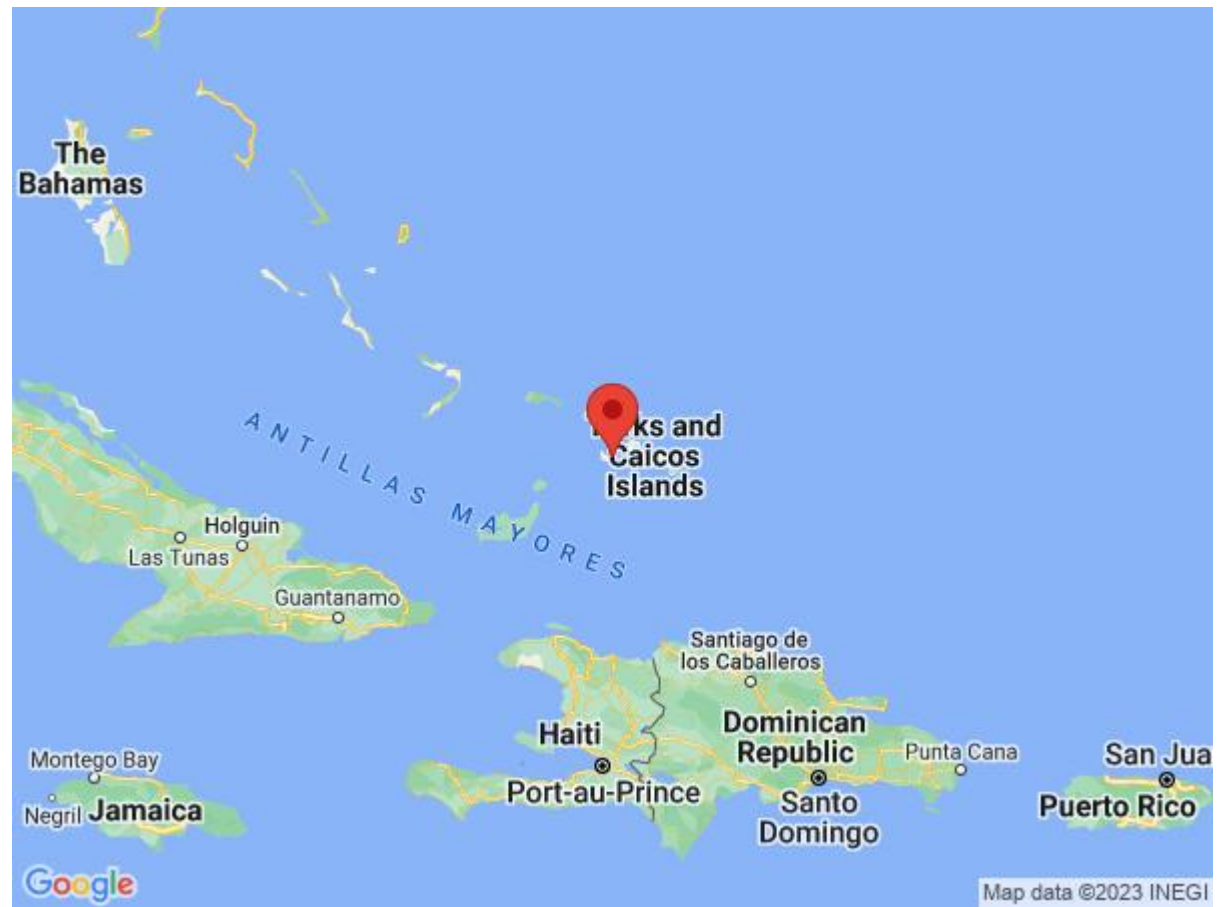

If you don't mind travelling out a bit further, the pleasantly named Turtle Cove Marina is a great place to charter a boat, fish and enjoy water sports and tends to draw aficionados of boating and sailing.

The island of Providenciales offers so much more too. For instance, you might want to take in the lagoon permeated with islands and mangroves that is Chalk Sound National Park. The best way to explore this enchanting area is by kayak or paddleboard, which can both be rented.

If you're new to snorkelling or diving, Coral Gardens and Smith's Reef both offer plenty of opportunities to explore the world beneath the water.

Conch is a local delicacy used in many meals on the island. A visit to Conch Farm will allow you to learn more about the conch and how they became so integral to the cuisine.

If you're in season, you can enjoy whale watching from January to April, as the whales begin their migration. You might also want to take in the history and culture of the island with a visit to Cockburn Town on Grand Turk – a great opportunity to learn about the indigenous Lucayan people.

What we love

- The view of Grace Bay Beach was unbeatable. It's one of the most beautiful in the world, and it was there for us to look at all day every day.
- We loved the food, a real mix of African, Caribbean and European. The fish dishes at the restaurant were excellent.
- We rode horses along the beach in the cool morning hours. It was the best way to begin a day.
- I just loved everything about the studio. Can I stay forever please?

What you should know...

- Always have cash with you (establishments take US dollars) so you can make a purchase in any of the smaller establishments.
- Want to see whales? Check out the season. Whales tend to migrate between January and April. January and February are the key months if you want to almost be guaranteed a sighting.
- Pack clothing with long sleeves and bring the bug spray. The mosquitos love the island as much as we do!
- Heading to the island during peak season? Make sure you book unmissable experiences before you fly to avoid disappointment.
