

Villa Parily

Region: Marbella Sleeps: 14

Overview

Situated on a quiet road within Marbella's glorious Golf Valley, this impressive villa is secluded, offering the ideal place to relax in the sun and spend days beside the pool with family and friends.

Sitting within a gated walled garden, Villa Parily is extremely private, enclosed by swaying palms, olive trees and leafy plants that create a tranquil environment and offer a vibrant backdrop for the immaculate white facade.

A private driveway gives access to the house, and a set of steps lead up to the main entrance whilst a carefully manicured lawn wraps around the terrace and pool to the front. The bright interior is beautifully designed, with spacious rooms boasting high ceilings and minimalist-style decor. Large openings draw in natural light, and a polished concrete floor runs throughout, creating a seamless flow from room to room. A generous living room sits at the front of the villa, with comfortable seating facing out to the garden. Large sliding doors give access to the terrace beyond, inviting you to leave them open throughout the day to enjoy a gentle breeze and create a fluid indoor-outdoor space. To one end, an impressive contemporary fireplace partially divides the room with a smart dining table to the far side and a further set of doors opening out to the patio where you can share meals outside and make the most of the sunny days. A further lounge area offers ample space to relax whilst the modern kitchen is well-equipped to prepare meals throughout your stay.

Sitting at the front of the villa, the beautiful swimming dominates the garden, inviting you to cool off in the refreshing water and float beneath the blue skies. Running along its length, the paved pathway leads to a separate terrace where an informal seating area, dining table and outdoor bar are shaded beneath a suspended sail canopy. Sit beneath the stars and enjoy entertaining evenings, sharing a bottle of wine beside the glowing pool.

Found in the main house and a separate annexe space, the beautiful bedroom suites adopt the same minimal aesthetic, with generous king-sized beds covered in top-quality linens. Most rooms benefit from ensuite bathrooms, each tastefully furnished with luxury fittings and spacious showers. There is also a yoga studio and impressive fitness suite in the guest house, inviting you to maintain a gentle exercise routine during your stay.

Location & Local Information

Whilst enjoying a secluded setting within Marbella's famed Golf Valley, Villa Parily is situated just moments from the nearby attractions, making it easy to explore the lively towns and region's golden coastline.

Make the most of the warm climate and enjoy a round of golf on one of the beautifully kept courses nearby, or head to the prestigious Puente Romano Club to play a game of tennis. For keen walkers, the majestic Sierra Blanca mountains rise behind the villa and there are plenty of well-marked trails that invite you to explore the rocky landscape. Visit the charming hillside village of Ojen, where you can find a number of popular routes, and spend some time wandering the narrow cobbled streets to discover the ancient drinking fountains and lovely moorish architecture. A few minutes beyond the village, you can find the Refugio de Juanar, once a private hunting lodge. The private hotel is a popular starting point to ascend La Concha, where you will be rewarded with spectacular views from the mountain's summit.

Running parallel to the coast, the palm-lined Golden Mile stretches from Marbella town to the glamorous Puerto Banus port. Head down to the trendy marina, where you can wander along the waterfront and watch the impressive yachts and sailboats pull into the moor. Browse the stylish boutiques and fashionable galleries, or stop for lunch at one of the nearby restaurants where you can relax with a drink and soak up the buzzing atmosphere. The Sky Lounge terrace offers a great view over the harbour, or head to the iconic Sinatra's Bar to enjoy an evening cocktail and late-night music. For those looking to party through the night, wander along to Calle Ribera, where you will find bars and dance clubs open until the early hours, or for a more traditional affair, head to Casa Blanca, where you can enjoy a relaxed dinner and share plates of delicious Andalusian tapas.

Marbella is just 20 20-minute drive, or hop on the Banus-Marbella ferry to enjoy a leisurely boat trip up the coast. Wander the vibrant town, discover its rich culture, and visit the Plaza de los Naranjos to see the 16th-century Church of St Mary. The famous Avenida del Mar is positioned between the old town and the coast, and you can walk along the wide boulevard and admire a series of bronze sculptures designed by Salvador Dalí.

No visit to Marbella is complete without a swim in the sea, and there are plenty of beaches to choose from. The Senda Litoral Malaga is a wonderful coastal path from the town centre down to Playa San Pedro de Alcantara, where you will find a long stretch of golden sand perfect for spending an afternoon beside the sea. There are several water-sport activities on offer, or head to one of the 'chiringuitos' (beach bars) to enjoy a drink and some tapas whilst soaking up the view.

What we love

- Set within a quiet residential area, Villa Parily is surrounded by leafy plants and swaying palms, offering a peaceful spot to relax beneath the sun
- The large terrace invites you to make the most of the warm summer nights, sharing entertaining meals beside the pool or long evenings at the bar beneath the stars
- The interior spaces are tastefully furnished, with beautiful materials and well-chosen decorations that make the rooms both elegant and inviting
- Whilst enjoying a secluded setting, Villa Parily is perfectly located within Marbella's golf valley, making it easy to explore the surrounding region or take a short drive to the beach

What you should know...

- A fence does not enclose the swimming pool, so young children should be supervised at all times
- A car is recommended to make the most of the nearby amenities and visit the surrounding region
