The main house, a testament to architectural grandeur, houses five sea-facing bedrooms, each adorned with exquisite decor. The upper floor hosts three bedrooms, including a spacious master with his and hers ensuite bathrooms. For added convenience, an elevator seamlessly connects the upper floor to the wine cellar, a cottage-sized haven that houses treasures from around the world, including a cinema, spa, multi-level gym, and a private tennis court.

But the allure of The Ridge extends beyond the main house. The gingerbread section, an oasis of tranquillity, features a playroom for children and four ground-floor bedrooms with a full kitchen, laundry, and living area. Step onto the spacious patio, cooled by gentle breezes, and gaze upon the adjacent tennis court or engage in a strategic duel on the giant outdoor chess board.

Adjacent to Gingerbread, a two-bedroom cottage beckons, offering private ground-floor ensuite bedrooms with patios overlooking a serene Koi pond. The theatrical courtyard fountain, ethereal gazebos, and a ridgefront pool create a surreal atmosphere, perfect for hosting poolside weddings and events against the backdrop of the Caribbean Sea.

What truly sets The Ridge apart is its impressive collection of memorabilia. Movie connoisseurs will marvel at rare film artefacts, including Charlie Chaplin's cane and an original vintage film poster collection. Design enthusiasts will find joy in furniture pieces by Carlo Bugatti and Viscount Linley, alongside sketches from artist Oliver Messel. The villa seamlessly blends international and Barbadian history in a stunning walkthrough display featuring Barbadian rums, historic pennies, and soulful African art pieces.
