The living area here is cosy and welcoming with plush sofas and armchairs gathered around a feature fireplace. This opens out on to a balcony where you can sip your freshly brewed coffee. If you prefer a snug room to watch TV or a movie in the evening, you can retreat into the TV room instead. One room even boasts a freestanding bath for a romantic soak.

Outdoors, the house has a wonderful jacuzzi where you can relax after a long day of skiing, before heading inside to heat up by the fireside.

Just 1km away from the house, you can reach the Super Morzine lift which will take you up to the ski slopes, and to picturesque hiking routes in the warmer months. There are plenty of ski lessons for all abilities here too, so if you are new to skiing you can learn with a local instructor and utilise the smaller slopes. For the more experienced you can visit the more challenging slopes.

After a busy day of skiing or walking, you will find lots of cafes, bars and restaurants to spend cosy evenings enjoying dinner and drinks by a crackling fireside.

The home is well-situated in the heart of Morzine and from here you can easily reach other French ski resorts and pop over the border into Switzerland.
