Location & Local Information

Stunningly situated in a secluded bay north of Dubrovnik (a 16-minute drive), Villa Malvina is a sanctuary, but that doesn't mean it's isolated. The short trip around, or across, the bay brings guests to the beautiful port town of Zaton, where they can find beaches, restaurants, cafes, and markets.

But of course, with such proximity to the city dubbed by the poet Byron as "the pearl of the Adriatic", the Dubrovnik Riviera is the local highlight and one of the most beautiful locales in Europe. Outside the city's medieval walls are countless spots to swim and sunbathe, while within the city walls the Old Town's limestone streets and Baroque churches are endless enough to get lost in.

Game of Thrones fans will recognise many parts of the city as filming locations, including Fort Lovrjenac for the Red Keep, and the Rector's Palace as the Spice King's Qarth abode. There are even dedicated tours on offer. But don't forget, Fort Lovrjenac regularly transforms into an outdoor theatre space in the summertime where plays by Shakespeare are regularly performed – but you'll need to get tickets in advance!

If history is your then, then have no fear, Dubrovnik is bustling with it.

Interestingly, some of that history isn't as old as you might think. Indeed, the Red History Museum shows how Croats lived when their country was a part of Socialist Yugoslavia (1945-1991); displays include a typical 1970s apartment and the sinister history of the Yugoslav secret police. For a quieter but no less picturesque day out, nearby Mlini (24-minute drive) is a small, idyllic fishing village located halfway between Cavtat and Dubrovnik with a charming harbour, a delightful pebble and sand beach, cafes and restaurants and the most stunning sunsets.
