The charm of the nearby town of Ribeira Brava is evident in its enchanting cobblestone streets and whitewashed houses overlooking the sparkling turquoise ocean, making it a contender for the title of the most beautiful town in Madeira. The shoreline, dotted with idyllic beaches, inviting cafés, and delightful restaurants, provides the perfect setting from which to savour local culinary delights, ideal for when you would rather indulge in the island's delicacies than cook up a feast at Casa Ribeira.

Discover a local treasure by visiting the Forte de São Benta, home to a picturesque lighthouse offering stunning coastal views. The Igreja de São Bento, a local church, is a remarkable structure that safeguards precious paintings from the sixteenth century, which reflect the historical trade ties between Madeira and Europe. Stay close to home with invigorating Levada walks, which give you the opportunity to explore a network of manmade irrigation systems covering an amazing 1,350 miles. The walk from Levada Nova to Tabau promises magnificent vistas, ancient bridges, and sixteen miles of interconnected tunnels, with guided walks catering to various abilities.

Roughly forty minutes away from Ribeira Brava by car, Ponta do Pargo boasts breathtakingly steep cliffs which rise dramatically from the sea and give you the sense of having reached the end of the world, with nothing but the vast ocean stretching out ahead of you. Don't miss the once-in-a-lifetime sunsets from this remarkable vantage point.

A day trip to Funchal, the capital of Madeiran, is also a must! Approximately fifty minutes away by car, Funchal is known for its small-town Portuguese charm and picturesque waterfront, where pretty cafés and traditional restaurants beckon tourists with their distinctive local flavours. Explore the vibrant Mercado dos Lavradores for an authentic island experience, with friendly stallholders selling fresh fruits, vegetables, and fish. Visitors are always recommended to indulge in pastéis de nata, delicious Portuguese custard tarts made by local artisan bakers.
