

Villa Acqualagna

Region: Le Marche Sleeps: 6

Overview

Villa Acqualagna is the perfect choice for those wishing for a peaceful holiday within the Italian countryside. From your base at this historic farmhouse, you can access charming villages and open countryside, while also taking day trips to the coast and to bustling cities.

The villa is set over two floors and lies on a quiet hillside overlooking the valley and rolling fields of Le Marche. The home is a pretty, stone house with traditional shuttered windows, while the interiors boast historic fireplaces, ceiling beams and exposed stone work. All efforts have been made by the owners to preserve the authentic feel of the home, though it has also been modernised with the addition of TVs, air conditioning and WI-FI.

On the ground floor, you have plenty of space to gather together as there are two living rooms on offer. The first is a large room with two sofas, a feature fireplace and a TV. In the next room there is a double-space living area with two seating areas, each gathered around a fireplace.

The kitchen here is a lovely, long room with a dining table at its centre and all of the appliances you need for making delicious meals for your loved ones. Though you can also opt to cook and dine al-fresco. A bathroom and a laundry area complete the ground floor.

Upstairs, there are three lovely bedrooms you can choose from when you wish to get a restful nights sleep, interrupted by nothing but the sounds of nature outside. The rooms are made up of a bedroom with bunk beds and two bedrooms with double beds. These rooms all have access to two shower rooms.

With such a wonderful climate, you are sure to want to spend much of time outdoors and the garden here ideal for this. With a stunning covered dining terrace overlooking a lawned garden, there is plenty of space for relaxing outside. The garden even boasts a brick barbecue area where you can make pizzas in the wood burning oven. On hot days you can cool down in the inviting pool.

The main attraction in the area surrounding the home is the open countryside and wonderful farmland where you can visit farm restaurants and go on food and wine tours. Foodies will love spending their holiday here! Local towns and villages are also in abundance a short drive away, for example you can visit

Acqualagna which is 8km away or drive further out to the enchanting city of Urbino which is 25km away

Location & Local Information

A holiday to Le Marche in Italy promises a serene escape into the heart of rural beauty, with Villa Acqualagna as the perfect retreat. Nestled in a captivating landscape, this charming home provides a haven for those seeking a quiet break surrounded by nature's wonders.

The villa's proximity to walking routes and local farms makes it an ideal starting point for nature enthusiasts. Hiking trails lead to scenic vistas, providing the perfect backdrop for picnics amidst the rolling hills. Delving into the local agriculture, farm visits offer an authentic experience, showcasing the region's bounty.

For culinary enthusiasts, the nearby Agriturismo farm restaurants beckon with the allure of homegrown produce. Dining on fresh, locally sourced ingredients becomes a delightful ritual, highlighting the rich flavours of Le Marche. Food tours and wine tastings at local vineyards further elevate the gastronomic journey, allowing visitors to sample the region's culinary treasures. Truffle hunting is also a cherished activity for tourists visiting Le Marche, offering an exciting adventure into the woods in pursuit of these coveted delicacies which is a fun-filled day out.

Venturing beyond the villa, a short drive of 8km leads to Acqualagna, a quaint town boasting shops, supermarkets, and a diverse array of restaurants. Meanwhile, the picturesque hillside village of Pergola, located 15km away, beckons with its historic sulphur mines and the enchanting Loretello Castle nearby.

Urbino, a mere 25km away, stands as a jewel in Le Marche's crown. This stunning walled city, a UNESCO World Heritage site, captivates with its Renaissance architecture and cultural richness. A day trip to Urbino promises exploration of its historic landmarks, museums, and charming streets, providing a glimpse into the region's vibrant past.

For those yearning for a coastal interlude, the Adriatic Coast is easily accessible. A drive to Pesaro, surrounded by inviting beaches, presents an opportunity for a sun-soaked day by the sea.

The juxtaposition of rural tranquillity and coastal allure makes Le Marche a versatile destination, catering to diverse tastes and preferences. Whether indulging in the simplicity of a countryside retreat or exploring the cultural and culinary gems scattered across the region, a holiday in Le Marche promises a memorable and enriching experience.

What we love

- Sitting on a hillside with panoramic countryside views, Villa Acqualagna is an idyllic place to stay on your Italian escape
- With three welcoming bedrooms, the villa can sleep a group of six guests comfortably
- Outside, a lush garden filled with lawns, terraces and shrubs awaits you, with a refreshing pool as its centrepiece
- Though the home enjoys a quiet, rural setting, you can reach plenty of towns and villages easily such as Acqualagna and Molaccione

What you should know...

- The final cleaning fee and the cost for the use of the air conditioning and central heating will be charged separately
- Those travelling with a baby can request the use of a highchair and cot
- Guests should be aware that the pool is quite small, you will not be able to swim lengths in it, though it is nice and refreshing
- In order to explore more of Le Marche, we recommend you bring a car
